

How to Start Telling Bible Stories

1. Listen to the stories (<https://www.storyrunners.org/stories/>)
 - a. Listen to several stories each day as a quiet time until you've listened to all 40 stories.
 - b. Use units from The Promise Story Group Units or create your own units.
 - c. Process each unit of stories devotionally using the story group questions from How to Lead a Story Fellowship Group.
2. Learn a story (How to Learn a Story by Yourself)
 - a. Choose one that resonates with you, that connects to your personal story, and/or addresses your listener's worldview (<http://theculturetest.com/survey>)
 - i. Power/fear
 - ii. Honor/shame
 - iii. Guilt/innocence
3. Practice telling the story, applying the suggestions from How to Be a Good Storyteller.
4. Use that story to lead a story group (How to Lead a Story Fellowship Group) with your team, a Bible study, a church small group, a family, or any other natural grouping of people.
5. Tell that story to somebody you meet or already know
 - a. Practice introducing a story into conversation (How to Use a Bible Story in Conversation).
 - b. Use the story group questions to prompt discussion.
6. Use the resources mentioned in this document to help you.
 - a. How to Be a Good Storyteller
 - b. How to Lead a Story Fellowship Group
 - c. How to Learn a Story by Yourself
 - d. How to Use a Bible Story in Conversation
 - e. The Promise Story Group Units